

AARON

Vera Whole Health
Client Support Specialist

Aaron came to WorkSource Spokane after his previous employment as a Customer Service Representative came to an end due to circumstances outside of his control. After 3-4 months of job searching as an unemployed worker, he decided to connect with the team of Career Coaches at WorkSource Spokane to "utilize my skills to find a career." In addition to the job seeker services provided by WorkSource Spokane, he found comfort in the support also offered at the Spokane Resource Center on the second floor of the WorkSource Spokane building.

“

I was expecting that I would receive and also utilize the help in which both WorkSource Spokane and the Spokane Resource Center has to offer... I recommend their services.

"Everyone at both centers, including Cynthia, Brian, and Peggy, had so much insight and helped guide me in my career search process", said Aaron. Through each center's network of connections, Aaron found an opportunity that fits his long-term focus of developing his career as a health care administrator, which he is also taking online classes to support his vision of success.

He is currently employed at the Center for Solace working alongside mental health professionals in providing counseling to individuals, spouses, and children. In November, he will travel to Seattle to become trained to support Vera Whole Health, a leading health care clinic focused on revitalizing the industry in order to provide health care access to every person within its reach. He adds, "Vera (in Italian) means truth, so we believe in the true health care for all."
